Jeff Schwarz, who is also known as the "Stain Wizard", has served the drycleaning industry since 1991, when he started in the San Francisco Bay Area selling/installing pads and covers - everything from shirt units to flatwork ironers. This is also where he became involved with industry trade associations. Jeff served as president of the Peninsula Drycleaning Association, and later the Central Valley Drycleaning Association.

Jeff has written numerous articles for newsletters and Western Cleaners and Launderers magazine and he was named "Allied Tradesman of the Year" by the CCA, SDA and WSDCLA associations.

As the Western US Regional Vice President for A.L. Wilson Chemical Co., Jeff is responsible for covering 13 states including Hawaii and also Western Canada. He visits approximately 1,000 Drycleaning plants each year to provide technical assistance and conducts 20 in plant training sessions and industry spotting/bleaching seminars every year.
